

The Northern Virginia Writing Project presents the

Bernadette Mulholland Glaze Language and Learning Conference 2009

Friday, April 17, 2009

*George Mason University ~ Student Union II
8:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.*

Featuring: Mark Overmeyer as Keynote Speaker “Troubleshooting in the Writing Workshop”

The talk and workshop will focus on strategies for meeting the needs of all learners, including: English Language Learners, resistant writers, struggling writers, and gifted students; formative assessment practices in the workshop; and meeting the demands of testing/standards without compromising the workshop. Mr. Overmeyer’s talk and workshop, as well as all NVWP presentations that will take place in the morning sessions, are appropriate for teachers of all subjects and all grade levels.

Mark Overmeyer is the author of When Writing Workshop Isn’t Working. He has twenty-three years of experience teaching in Cherry Creek Schools in Denver, Colorado, where he has had experience in special education, gifted programming, and literacy coordination at the elementary level. Mr. Overmeyer also teaches classes in literacy for M.A. candidates at the University of Colorado.

Questions? Contact NVWP at (703) 993-1168 or E-mail: mfarring@gmu.edu.

NVWP morning presentations will be posted online two weeks before the conference at www.nvwp.org.
